In celebration of our 25th anniversary in publishing, Penumbra Press is launching a reprint series of titles that have characterized and defined our northern and aboriginal focus since 1979.

Soapstone Carving for Children is a craft book with a difference. First, it is a family activities book; secondly combining history of the craft with the procedures of carving makes the book a high-interest source of enjoyment; and thirdly it provides sample projects and working drawings for children to develop on their own.

BONNIE GOSSE is an experienced Vancouver teacher and has always been interested in learning and teaching crafts. This book follows on her recent success with Keep It Green, an environmental board game. Dave Gosse, a shipyard cabinet-maker, is an amateur photographer with a love of computers. Together, Bonnie and Dave Gosse provide children with step-by-step instructions for carving, and visual clues for the proper handling of soapstone.

The children in this book, Rebecca Gosse, Sylvie Gosse and Lani Bastien, are all students of the Vancouver Waldorf School. Join with them as they experience the hands-on pleasure of carving soapstone.
